Passionate attention in the Bordeaux-style vineyards, and a very natural approach in the cellar benefiting from international consultants, make Pierluigi Tolaini's estate one of the most important in the Chianti Classico area between Pianella and Vagliagli. The wines are modern in style but stylistically well-balanced, not without grip and definitely supple in flavour. Ageing takes place mainly in small oak, without invasive procedures. The Picconero '10, a blend of merlot, cabernet sauvignon and petit verdot, has a lovely structural texture and generous, concentrated aromas on the nose. The Chianti Classico Montebello Vigneto n. 7 Riserva '10 has generally austere aromas but a stronger palate, nicely reactive with a deep finish. Both the Valdisanti '10, from sangiovese, cabernet sauvignon and franc, and the Al Passo '10, sangiovese and merlot, are slightly held in check by the oak used in ageing.
